The Royals made it to the World Series for the first time since 1985 when they beat the Cardinals. K. C. swept the Angels and Orioles in the ALDS and ALCS, respectively, after knocking off Oakland in the Wild Card Game to reach the Fall Classic. After hitting the fewest homers in the major leagues (95), the Royals gave the Giants a superb battle in the Series before falling four games to three...Alex Gordon led the Royals with 19 homers, 74 RBI, and 87 runs scored. Gordon was followed by Salvador Perez (17 homers, 70 RBI) and Mike Moustakas (15 homers, 54 RBI). Perez won his second Gold Glove Award. Alcides Escobar led the ball club in hits (165) and was second with 74 runs scored. Omar Infante and Billy Butler both accounted for 66 runs batted in. For the season, K. C. was second in the A.L. with a .263 batting average. They led the league in stolen bases (153)...James Shields and Yordano Ventura led the pitching staff after each won 14 ball games. Shields was tops with 180 strikeouts while the powerful arm of Ventura whiffed 159 batters. Jeremy Guthrie went 13-11 for the year; Jason Vargas won eleven contests. Closer Greg Holland racked up 90 strikeouts and Wade Davis tallied one-hundred nine. The staff finished fourth with a 3.51 ERA and first with 53 saves.
