 The Dodgers spent almost the entire season chasing the Giants while in second place of the NL West. (They DID tie San Francisco for first as late as September 4th.) A 22-7 final month and 106 wins weren't enough to claim the crown. Los Angeles finished 50-26 versus division opponents, 9-10 versus the Giants. The pitching staff ended the year with the best ERA in MLB (3.01). Julio Urias' breakout season with 20 wins and 3 losses topped the ballclub. Walker Buehler (16-4) logged the most strikeouts (212). Fireballing youngster Dustin May was lost for the year, May 12th, following surgery for a torn UCL. Of the team's 237 homers, Max Muncy produced the most (36) and a team-high 94 RBL. After knocking off the Cardinals in the Wild Card Game, the Dodgers eliminated the Giants, 3-2 in their NLDS confrontation. An opportunity to defeat the Braves for the second straight year in the NLCS ended as Atlanta turned the tables on L. A. with a 4-2 series victory. Lack of timely hitting and the absences of Muncy and Justin Turner (injuries) became the Dodgers' downfall ***
